Steam pours from the pile driver beating down beams 60 feet long. Another, 50 feet long, is welded on later for further driving. Steel weighs about 90 pounds to the foot. There are 31 piers, but piling of this calibre is only used where piers will be in the water. Other photo on page 12. (Daily Record photo)

Two Accused Of Shakedown

New York (AP) — Two former top Republican leaders in Staten Island were arrested yesterday on charges of conspiracy to shake down officeholders for political contributions they used for themselves.

The men, Edward R. Ruppell and Peter B. Spinelli, also were accused of accepting large sums from persons trying to get liquor licenses or prevent revocation of such licenses.

Other charges accused the political leaders of intimidating witnesses and seeking to bribe a game protector.

Top state officials and a legislator were among those who allegedly made cash contributions to the two.

Ruppell and Spinelli are accused of getting some $8,800 from the shakedown.

The charges grew out of hearings of the state crime commission and a four-month probe by a Staten Island special grand jury, ordered to make the investigation by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

Boyle Linked To Charges

St. Louis, (AP) — A metallurgist was charged with perjury and obstruction of justice yesterday in a Federal grand jury indictment linking him with William M. Boyle Jr., former national Democratic chairman.

The metallurgist is Lee B. Schumacher of suburban Kirkwood.

Schumacher was accused of falsely testifying that he did not advise an official of the May Department Store Co. to hire Boyle as an attorney to speed action on the company's 10-million-dollar tax refund claim late in 1949.

The grand jury also charged that Schumacher committed perjury by saying, as a witness before the jury, that he never discussed the May company claim with James P. Finnegan, former St. Louis collector of internal revenue.

Finnegan was indicted by the same grand jury last October on charges of bribery and other misconduct in office. His trial is scheduled to start next Monday.

Kefauver Hits Watered Budget

Perry, Ia. (AP) — Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) told a farmer-businessman audience here last night he's convinced there is a "great deal of water" in the $5.4 billion dollar budget proposed by President Truman.

"Everybody is agreed," said the senator, only announced candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, "that we should squeeze out the water—all of it—and get down to bedrock."

Great Britain Has A-Bomb, Churchill Advises Commons

Security Of U. S. Periled, Nixon Charges

Philadelphia (AP) — Sen. Richard Nixon (R-Calif.) said last night that American foreign policy under the Truman administration has failed to such an extent that "the security of the nation—and this means our homes and our lives—is directly and imminently threatened."

In an address at the 43rd annual dinner meeting of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' association, Nixon said: "When President Truman took office in 1945, we were the strongest nation economically, militarily and in every other way, on the globe."

In six years, Nixon said, the situation has changed so that "today we have lost the support of many of our friends and earned the contempt of our enemies."

"We are subjected to insults and blackmail abroad," he said. "We find that during the six years of the Truman administration the Communists have gained, and we have lost, six hundred million people, one hundred million a year."

The Californian said that it is "immaterial whether these losses have been sustained because of the questionable loyalty of some of those who have made our policy or because of their stupidity or honest mistakes of judgment."

"The hard fact is," he added, "that our policy has failed."

"For the first time in American history, the security of the nation—and this means our homes and our lives—is directly and imminently threatened."

Nixon, who has supported Gov. Earl Warren of California for the GOP presidential nomination, warned that the Republican party must beware of propounding a policy of isolationism.

"What is needed," he said, "is not isolationism, but more effective American international leadership."

"We must recognize that we can lose the struggle in which we are engaged in more than one way. The administration has constantly placed almost exclusive emphasis upon the dangers of military defeat and the necessity for military strength."

"While military strength is important, we must recognize in determining our policy that the gains which the Communists have made over the past six years of six hundred million people, have been accomplished without the loss of a single Russian soldier in combat."

Suit Filed To Keep MacArthur Name On Ballot

Harrisburg (AP) — The Commonwealth was sued yesterday to restore Gen. Douglas MacArthur's name on the presidential preference ballot in the April 22 primary.

Andrew W. Green, Harrisburg attorney, filed three separate actions in Dauphin county court seeking an order to nullify MacArthur's withdrawal from the race.

The actions were directed at Gene Smith, secretary of the Commonwealth, who ruled that MacArthur could legally strike his name from the ballot.

Removal of MacArthur's name left only Harold E. Stassen, president-on-leave of the University of Pennsylvania, and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower on the GOP presidential preference ballot.

Attention Given Tax Deductions

Washington (AP) — Revenue Commissioner John B. Dunlap said yesterday "special attention" will be given this year to "excessive and unreasonable expenditures claimed as deductions in tax returns."

Dunlap said reports both from within the Revenue bureau and from outside sources indicate "numerous instances of excessive business expenditures, particularly those relating to lavish travel and entertainment expenses."

He said other abuses have been reported in returns listing executives' expense allowances, business gratuities, and disguised payments in the form of living expenses provided for corporation officials.

War Tempo Rises

Seoul, Wednesday (AP) — Allied artillery and planes hit the Communists today as snow clouds broke and lifted over the Korean hills. Most had been grounded three days by bad weather.

Ex-Convict Flees $19,600 California Robbery In Airliner, Only To Drop Into FBI's Arms

New York (AP) — A bad man of the air age fled a California bank robbery by transcontinental plane, only to drop into the FBI's arms yesterday at La Guardia field—3,000 miles away.

FBI men closed in on him to end in less than 15 hours a fantastic 300-mile-an-hour drama that unfolded far above the clouds, aboard a sleek, ultra-modern airliner riding the night winds eastward.

He is John Richard Bayless, 36, an Alcatraz prison alum who dresses and looks more like a banker than a once-convicted bank bandit.

But he totes a gun. He tried to pull it when he was seized here, after being tracked by radio along his coast-to-coast getaway flight.

Bayless is wanted for the $19,600 stickup Monday morning of the Hollywood branch of the Bank of America, where many a movie star salts away a fortune.

Keating Bares Apparent Move To Block Justice Dept. Probe

Washington, (AP)—Rep. Keating (R-NY) declared last night there appeared to be an attempt to block a budding House investigation of the Justice department by denying the investigators space from which to operate.

Keating told reporters he was "very disturbed" over the inability of a special House judiciary subcommittee to find Capitol Hill quarters for itself and its staff.

He said there was a "feeling" the inquiry was being "upset over the apparent roadblock in the way of getting started." Asked if he had anyone in mind as having set up such a block, he replied: "Of course—those who are interested in preventing an investigation of the Justice department."

Keating said he would name no names but he added, "come and see me tomorrow afternoon."

The committee agreed, meanwhile, to summon Attorney General McGrath as its first witness whenever its investigation does get under way.

Chairman Chelf (D-Ky) said members agreed to question the attorney general on two main points outlined by Rep. Rogers (D-Colo.).

One would deal with the manner in which McGrath runs his office—handling of cases referred to the Justice department by other Federal agencies delays or failures in prosecution, and the department's method of dealing with United States attorneys.

The other, Chelf said, would refer to the administration of Theron Lamar Caudle, former assistant attorney general in charge of the tax division, Caudle was fired by President Truman in the wake of Internal Revenue scandals unearthed by another House committee.

Meanwhile, Senator Langer (R-ND) praised Newbold Morris' move to quiz key government officials about their outside income and suggested that the No. 1 cleanup investigator check up also on members of Congress.

Rep. Velde (R-Ill), one of the Republicans to protest the speaker's edict, suggested yesterday that politics might be involved in it.

Velde noted that the ruling came just in time to stop televising of a public hearing in Detroit by the House Un-American Activities committee, and added in a statement: "It is because of the approaching senatorial election in Michigan that the ban was ordered."

"It is because some politicians in Michigan are afraid that my colleague on the committee, the gentleman from Michigan, Mr. Potter, will enter the race for the senatorship and that he would be a most formidable candidate?"

Potter, a Republican, has been mentioned as a possible opponent of Senator Moody (D-Mich) in the November election. Had Monday's hearing been televised, he would have been seen and heard by large number of Michigan voters.

Returns To Patrol

King of Prussia, Pa. (AP) — Edward B. Mack went back on patrol duty with his deer rifle at 3 p. m. yesterday on his property. The State wants Mack to get off his property so his gasoline station, luncheonette and eight-room apartment can be torn down to make way for a road improvement. He is holding out for a cash settlement.

the bank and sped away in a car.

A witness caught the license number of the getaway car, which was found abandoned later in Hollywood, a sawed off shotgun inside.

The FBI said Bayless purchased the car under the name of John R. Bennett. They were able to link this name to Bayless as his alias.

A check of airlines showed that a man named Bayless boarded a New York plane.

By now the big airliner with Bayless aboard was nearly 3,000 miles away. FBI agents rushed to the airport at Dayton, O., where it made a stopover. But is already had taken off again.

The big plane settled down at LaGuardia, rolled to a stop, then taxied up to its unloading platform. As Bayless stepped out, two FBI men pinned his arms to his sides before he could get his gun out.

Allies Scold Communist Negotiators

Munsan, Wednesday (AP) — The Allies told the Communists today they apparently were more interested in defining the merits of Soviet Russia than in making progress with the Korean truce talks.

The scolding came during a 50-minute meeting of staff officers drafting truce supervision agreements.

Allied rejection of Russia as an armistice observer has stalled the talks at the staff officer level for days.

Chinese Col. Chang Chun San reaffirmed that the Reds would reject categorically any proposal, which turned down their nominations of Russia without justification.

The Allies have given as their reason for barring Russia that nation's prior participation in Korea. The reason was not defined further. However, Russia occupied North Korea at the close of World War II, and trained and supplied the Red Korean armed forces.

U.S. Destroyers Quit War For World Cruise

Yokohama, Wednesday (AP) — Four sleek U.S. destroyers, veterans of the Korean war, will sail today on a trip around the world "to show the flag."

Plans to sail at dawn were cancelled at the last moment, and the Navy said the destroyers would slip from their berths this afternoon.

The good will cruise was reminiscent of the famed white fleet cruise of 1908 when 16 warships under Rear Adm. R. D. Evans toured the world and dropped anchor at Yokohama to impress Japan.

President Theodore Roosevelt sent the fleet to show the flag and to show friendship.

A naval spokesman said the current cruise likewise "is to show the flag."

Selected for the cruise are the Hyman, Beatty, Purdy and Bristol, all swift, modern warships which make up Destroyer Division 122.

The first port of call is Hong Kong. The other ports are announced, but it is believed they will include Ceylon, Bahrain, Aden, Port Said, Naples, Cannes, Gibraltar and the Azores.

House Gives Him Vote Of Confidence

London (AP) — Winston Churchill told Commons last night that Britain has the atom bomb and won from the House a 318 to 285 vote of confidence on his foreign policy.

Fighting off Labor party attempts to censure him for a controversial speech before the U.S. Congress last month, the 77-year-old prime minister denied vigorously making any secret agreements in his Washington talks with President Truman.

He insisted that Britain's policy toward China remained unchanged. Churchill said the Labor government defeated in last October's election not only produced the atom bomb in secret but also set up a plant for regular production.

The program was so secret, the prime minister said, that he learned about the bomb himself only after coming back into power four months ago.

In the angry, bitter debate over foreign policy, Churchill lashed back at pacifist elements in the Labor party. He claimed the former Labor government itself had been ready as far back as last May to join in taking action "not confined to Korea" in the event of heavy air attacks on United Nations forces from bases in China.

Laborite Aneurin Bevan—who has led the anti-American policy group in the Labor party—led a howl of protests and demanded that Churchill produce proof on the statement.

The Laborite censure motion that precipitated the debate and its disclosure of the atom bomb charged that Churchill misled the U. S. Congress in his declaration Jan. 17 that Britain would take "prompt, resolute and effective" action alongside the U. S. if a Korean truce, once reached, was broken.

Churchill's disclosure gave point to a British announcement 10 days ago that, later this year, Britain will test an atomic weapon on a vast desert proving ground in the heart of Australia.

The announcement did not specify that the weapon was an atom bomb but there was speculation that an improved type of small bomb for support of ground troops might be the British product.

It was known at the time that the British considered they had a detonating factor improved over the American A-bomb exploding device.

Churchill's majority was a whopping 33-vote edge compared to the Conservatives' nominal overall majority of 14 votes.

Liberals and splinter parties have supported the prime minister in previous tests of strength.

Several times the House was in an uproar.

Herbert Morrison, Laborite former foreign minister, declared Churchill's address to Congress was "mischievous, irresponsible and foolish" and endangered world peace.

He charged Churchill "has created a legacy of confusion and doubt" in both Britain and the United States. In a speech packed with quotations from American newspapers and politicians, he demanded to know whether the statement to Congress represented a change in British policy.

The Laborites said Churchill had given the impression he came to secret agreements over far eastern policy during his January visit to Washington.

Given a noisy reception by the laborites, Churchill denied he had made any secret agreement. He quickly silenced every interrupter as he sailed into his atom disclosure.

Britain announced eight days ago she was ready to test an atomic weapon on Australia's rocket range this year. Not until yesterday did Churchill disclose it was a bomb, and one perfected under the Socialists at that.

He accused the Laborites of keeping the development secret "with Machiavellian art" so the Socialists could go on accusing the Conservatives of being warmongers.

The five Protestant ministers of East Stroudsburg and their respective Sunday school superintendents contemplate an intensive teacher training course for all teachers of the five Sunday schools. Dr. Lee Warren of the State Teachers College will serve as leader for the course.

A planning session to determine the place and time for these teacher training sessions will be held on Sunday, March 9 at 9:30 p. m. in the parsonage of Grace Lutheran church, East Stroudsburg. The meeting planned for Friday night in Grace parish house has been postponed in view of the larger planning meeting for March 9 which will determine the course of action for the cooperating churches.

The contemplated training course will in no way interfere with the planned teacher training sessions of the Monroe County Sunday School association but rather will augment its effectiveness and stimulate continued cooperation and interest.

Cancer Society Sets Goal Of $3,500 In This Year's Monroe County Campaign

A $3,500 quota was set last night for the 1952 American Cancer society campaign in Monroe county.

Quota was set at a meeting of the Monroe county unit which gathered at the society's local headquarters, 615 Sarah St., Stroudsburg, to map plans for the drive.

In addition to setting the county quota for funds to fight the widespread and insidious disease, campaign Chairman Detlef A. Hansen set this year's slogan as:

"Strike Back—Cancer Strikes One Out of Five."

The Cancer crusade will begin rolling April 1. Campaign material and public education literature on cancer will be distributed by Alfred W. Munson, educational chairman, Mrs. Christie Shull, who is in charge of cancer movie distribution, and Robert Widmer, publicity director.

An important phase of the county unit's activity is a program to make and distribute dressings for use by cancer patients. This part of the work is already being gotten underway.

The dressings will be made by volunteers under the direction of Mrs. John Stanford, Stroudsburg. They will be given free of charge to visiting nurses. Batches of 10 dozen dressings will be made up weekly under the county unit's direction.

Donation of $600 maximum to assist in the public health nursing care of cancer patients was moved by Munson and approved by the board.

Some $200 has already been donated for use in furnishing medication and dressings to indigent cancer patients in the county, the board said.

Mrs. Stanford said she hopes to contact women throughout the county to get help in the dressing program. "Anything that's white and clean can be used," Mrs. Stanford said. "We need donations of old linen sheets and pillow cases." Anyone who is, or who knows, a cancer patient in need of the dressings can obtain them by calling the A. C. S. headquarters, 542-J, she said.

Monroe County Should Develop Commercial Air Service As Means Of Bolstering Its Economy, Says Anderson

Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of articles dealing with opinions of bankers, industrialists, merchants and resort operators on the effort to bring full-time commercial air service to the Poconos and the effects such service would have on regional economy.

By Peter Olwyler
Monroe county must try to develop commercial air service, if only to hang on to its present economy.

That was the statement yesterday of Gerald M. Anderson, executive vice-president of the Stroudsburg Trust Co.

Anderson was referring to a proposal to extend and macadamize the present airport at Mount Pocono, and install commercial facilities.

The program was outlined to County Commissioners Amel F. Altenose, W. Adolph Rake and Granville Shiffer last month by R. LeRoy Dengler, Mount Pocono hotel operator and chairman of the airport authority there. Dengler was accompanied by six members of the authority.

He said the county share of the cost would be $5,000 a year for 10 years; additional grants of $50,000 from the State and $100,000 from the Federal government would bring the total to the amount needed.

Anderson cited two basic reasons for commercial air service: One—To help resort trade—the keystone of the county's economy.

Two—To bring air freight service to industry—the stabilizing factor of the county's economy.

"Helping the resort industry is helping the county," Anderson indicated. "We all get resort dollars in some form or other," he pointed out.

"Resort owners are continually improving their properties. They buy services, lumber, fuel, goods, locally. Vacationers spend their dollars in town, and at local stores.

"The resort industry was hurt last year. The all-package deals promoted by other vacation areas (like New England and the South) took business away from us in July and August—which are supposed to be the peak season here.

"A commercial airport could make it possible to extend the vacation season to include the spring and fall... perhaps advertise at cheaper rates... bring in more vacationers from a distance."

Other vacation areas are competing fiercely for tourist dollars, Anderson said. St. Petersburg, Florida, he pointed out, even levies tax millage for promotional purposes. The airlines go along with special rates.

"The promotion has really paid off," Anderson said. "Their vacation business is terrific."

Gerald M. Anderson

"We not only have to expand, but we have to fight to hold on to what business we have now. We can get very complacent, and wind up some morning to find a reverse economic cycle has started in the county.

"It costs money to promote," the banker said, "but it should be done. We have an ideal place. With a few more industries and an expanding resort trade, this county could be a gold mine—if it were developed.

"Right now we must do everything possible to retain what we have, let alone expand. Developing the location is one way to retain it."

The location of the airport at Mount Pocono Anderson described as, in his opinion, "ideal... it can't be beat. It could be developed to the fullest without injuring anybody."

The air freight service to be offered by a commercial line Anderson sees as a boon to industry in the county.

"That's a big reason for developing the airport," he said. "There are occasions when machinery breaks down," he went on. "Getting replacement parts by air freight can—and has—meant the difference between being able to resume operations quickly or having to shut down for several days."

Anderson mentioned the other possibilities of fast air travel by executives and business people, by county residents, and shipment of supplies and goods by air freight.

"Even if this were to be looked on as an experiment, I think definitely, as a banker, we have got to make the experiment—and $5,000 a year is a cheap price to pay."

A-A Airways Seeks To Have Franchise In State Renewed

Mount Pocono—Charles James, Pocono Manor, member of the Mount Pocono Airport Authority, and H. J. Davis attended a "briefing" meeting in Harrisburg yesterday dealing with plans to have All-American Airways' franchise in this state renewed by the Civil Aeronautics authority.

All-American's franchise includes the right to provide commercial airline service at the Mount Pocono airport.

The Pennsylvania Aeronautics commission arranged the meeting which attracted owners or operators of about 35 airports in Pennsylvania, including municipalities and municipal airport authorities, such as the Mount Pocono group.

The State commission has retained a firm of experts to present a case in behalf of the commercial airline's franchise in Washington. A hearing is to be held sometime in April and all briefs are to be submitted not later than April 7.

Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce is already embarked on research to supplement findings made by the firm of experts retained by the State commission. The experts have studied all the airports involved, including Mount Pocono.

Yesterday's meeting also set up plans for an exchange of exhibits by March 17 by all airport groups involved.

Mr. James and Mr. Davis conferred briefly with John (Red) Macfarlane, head of the State

Oatis Is Still In Jail

On Aug. 31, 1951, President Truman declared he was determined to take whatever measures were necessary to free Associated Press Reporter William Oatis from his Czech prison cell.

That was almost six months ago.
And William Oatis is still in jail.

He has been in jail on phony espionage charges nine months. Arrested by Communist police last April 23, he was held incommunicado until his "trial" in July, when he was sentenced to 10 years.

In its efforts to obtain Mr. Oatis' release, the State Department has relied chiefly on economic pressure. Trade between the U. S. and Czechoslovakia has been reduced to a trickle.

In co-operation with Great Britain and France, we also have banned Czech airline flights over Allied-occupied Germany and Austria.

It is estimated these measures will cost the Czechs $40 million a year in hard currency.

But Mr. Oatis is still in jail.

Several months ago, the State Department asked newspaper co-operation in the case. It suggested too many headlines might hamper negotiations for Mr. Oatis' release.

Since that time, most newspapers have gone along with the State Department, sitting still for Secretary of State Dean Acheson's frequent assertions that he couldn't discuss the case for fear of hurting Mr. Oatis' chances.

But William Oatis is still in jail.

Diplomacy is the means of intercourse between civilized nations. But civilized nations do not kidnap foreign nationals and railroad them to prison.

Washington Report

—by Fulton Lewis, Jr.

Washington—Business men and diplomats in South and Central American countries are convinced that present State Department policies will soon ruin the friendship those nations have for the U. S. A.

Less than a year ago the Latin American governments were enthusiastic about U. S. plans for the economic and security development of the Americas. Now they are not so sure.

Diplomats from those countries regard most State Department officials as "Eurasians." That is a word they have coined to describe an American who looks only toward Europe for economic growth and strong defenses.

Businessmen in the young republics south of the border—both American and native—are fed up with this government's economic development plans. They say the entire program is set upon a wrong basis.

The point four undertaking is predicated on a need for industrializing South and Central America. Business and government interests in those countries say that this is the last thing needed. The economy in most of the republics is agricultural, and most have vast stores of raw materials ready for American markets.

Some of the Latin American countries need additional manpower to work the farm lands and the mines. But they are balking at taking any more displaced persons. In one country in particular, which accepted thousands on the promise from former Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt that the bulk of the refugees would be farm trained, only a few dozen ever displayed any interest in farming. The bulk headed for the cities, where jobs were scarce and housing inadequate.

Those urging more consideration from the State Department for the other American nations are particularly bitter over what they term the phony economic reasoning displayed by the Eurasians. Europe, they insist, is a customer for Uncle Sam only so long as we continue to supply the dollars which permit Europe to buy goods from us.

Just the opposite is true in South and Central America. Those countries are eager customers, with raw materials to sell in exchange for finished goods. They are less interested in having the U. S. finance the construction of steel and rolling mills than they are in acquiring assistance in the construction of power projects. With electricity available for widespread distribution there would be a big demand for the household equipment that will raise the standard of living to a point comparable with our own.

There is a Communist problem in South and Central America also that has residents worried. They feel that our State Department is giving them the same treatment accorded to China and the rest of Asia. The government officials we have in these countries fail to give the Communist problem enough attention, and in some cases the State Department meddles in internal government affairs. In one instance a defeated president of a South American nation, a long-time Communist who now claims to be anti-Communist, was invited to the U. S. and allowed the run of the country by State Department officials. This was in spite of the fact that the internal security act forbids the admission of Communists or even former Communists.

Diplomats and businessmen from the good neighbor countries hesitate to speak out publicly. And with good reason. One blast from the State Department can almost force the defeat of a government in Latin America.

The concern over the future of South and Central America is so intense that officials from those countries are beating pathways to the doors of our own presidential possibilities, but this again is proving a disappointment.

The Truman administration at least has a plan for South and Central America, as bad as it may be. But the Republicans do not appear interested, even when informed that current policies are losing us friends. In fact, one recent visitor from Costa Rica, a prominent businessman, was informed by the staff of a GOP presidential aspirant that their candidate had no time to consider the problems of South and Central America in relation to U. S. policies. Somebody had better have time to do so, this individual has insisted, or the idea of continental solidarity and security will be little more than a pious but impossible-to-fulfill pronouncement.

A meteorite weighing 36½ tons was discovered in Greenland in 1895 by Robert Peary, discoverer of the North Pole.

There are more red-haired persons in Scotland than in any other country in the world.

The time has come to break off diplomatic relations down at the same table with kidnapers, with Czechoslovakia. The United States should not sit

Soreheads, Deaths-Heads

That there is an imperative need for reform in our driving habits is something few will deny, but this need is emphasized by the recent millionth traffic death in the United States and the publication of an article in a recent issue of Kiwanis magazine.

Dr. Louis Gay Balsam, author of the article, was prompted to make an investigation which led to the article after a friend who had left him one afternoon, "blind mad at his wife," ended up in a hospital.

Suspecting that his friends emotional state had been a contributing cause of the crash, Dr. Balsam planned an interview with more than 600 persons involved in major automobile accidents, and his findings are clear: in the vast majority of these cases, emotional upsets were the principal causes.

The reasons for the emotional upsets varied, of course. Some of them were quarrels between husband and wife. Others invited trouble with the children, while still others concerned acute dissatisfaction with jobs.

Dr. Balsam contends that motor accidents and bruised egos go together. "When you're emotionally upset," he says, "your car instantly is turned into a lethal weapon. It never argues with you, as you step on the gas and great power leaps to your command. It obeys whatever order you give it."

A car is not safe when an emotionally-unstrung man or woman, boy or girl, is at the wheel. So, when you feel like blowing your top, don't drive.

Utopia Confidential
This is what has happened while we were not looking closely. They slipped socialism over on us. It isn't "creeping." It's leaping.

Big business has been taken in by the Government through government contracts, allocations, wage and profit rulings, taxes, administrative boards, RFC financing and infiltration. Many Wall Street houses and big industries are forced to hire ex-Nazi Dealers as chairmen of boards, presidents and general counsels, or they get no handouts, and may be prosecuted by the trust-busters or tax men.

The Government succeeded in socializing the nation on other levels through giant reclamation projects, which, when complete, turn out to be competitors of legitimate business, which they undersell through tax exemption.

The following few are not isolated cases:

The Interior Department is planning to saddle the taxpayers with several billions more to irrigate a minute area in Arizona, with fewer than 6,000 farms. The long-range purpose is not to provide water for a handful, but to set up a giant government-owned electrical industry to drive private business in the area into bankruptcy. Meanwhile, a favored few are buying land the Government will condemn. Others are selling power stock short.

In Idaho, the Bureau of Reclamation plans a project on the Snake River to dwarf Hoover Dam. Through its excuse is to fertilize nearby farms, it will be almost exclusively for generating electric power, none of which will remain in the thinly-populated area, but will be carried to Oregon and Washington, to be added to the socialistic Bonneville pool. . . . Cronies of Senator Magnuson and Truman's pal, Mon Wallgren, stand to make fortunes from this.

The same bureau is earmarking billions more to dam the Marias River, in north central Montana, where a new gimmick has been added to force landowners there to reduce their holdings to 160 acres in an unadvised attempt at "agrarian reform."

The T. V. A., first of the socialist enterprises, is branching out to take over control of education and scientific research in the South, under cooperative tie-ups with the Board of Control for Southern Regional Education. At first this was all to be for "flood control." Electric energy would be a by-product, a yardstick to keep private producers in line. Then T. V. A. with legal authority only to dam rivers, started building steam electrical plants to undercut commercial producers whom it could not destroy with its water-derived energy.

Now Fair Deal Sen. Murray and Sec. of Interior Chapman are working for an extension to allow T. V. A. to experiment with windmills as a source of power, because "private utilities are inhibited" and the Federal government takes all profit it hasn't yet regulated or reduced. There are 72 federally-owned power systems in operation or under construction. More than $10,000,-

NEW 'SKELETON' GERMAN ARMY AS FRANCE SEES IT

Looking At Life —by Erich Brandeis

The other day while attending the funeral services for 82-year-old Jim McGovern, the grand old man of Bridgeport, Conn., I ran in to another Jim — Jim Farley, officially known as "Hon. James A. Farley, former Postmaster General of the United States."

These two Jims — Jim McGovern and Jim Farley — more than any other two men I know, had the ability to reach the hearts and minds of men.

And thus I was very much interested in a speech which had just been sent to me entitled "Reaching the Hearts and Minds of Men."

The speech had been delivered some time ago at the Mid-century Convocation Dinner of Ithaca College. It had been delivered by that same Jim Farley, and so I read it from the first to the last word.

I wanted to see what the secret was by which one COULD reach the hearts and minds of so many people as these two Jims had done.

I thought that perhaps I — and perhaps you, too — could gain something by it.

For the first place in his speech Farley put "good manners."

"Good manners," he said, "is something more than knowing how to hold your soup spoon or how to dress when you go to a church wedding. It is much more

000,000 was spent to finance this. And $50,000,000 more is on the draft boards. Most taxpayers get no return. The cheap power goes to a favored few.

Latest target is the telephone business. When a small company in Iowa applied for a $175,000 loan from the U. S. Rural Electrification Adm., to add 135 subscribers, bureaucrats insisted it take and pay interest on $313,000. . . . Also, it must hire one certain engineer, at $20,800.

And the insurance business, a backbone of private enterprise: By the end of 1952, the government will have more life insurance in force than all private companies combined. Social security, Veterans Administration and railroad retirement will pass 325 billion, while private life insurance will be below 300 billion.

The Defense Of Asia
The fact needs to be faced that the United States has become involved deeply in the affairs of Asia, of which the Korean War is only a phase. Is it isolationism to ask, why American troops have to be used in Asia when the Asiatic population is so large and when Asiatic countries have demonstrated over a period of years that they are capable of producing excellent troops if properly trained and equipped? Our aid to them could be in equipment and training.

Let us have a look at Japan. That country now has a population of 83,000,000, which is as large as that of England and France combined. This population is on the increase. The density is 3,640 persons per square mile of arable land and, according to the "Population Bulletin," it is greater than that of Germany, Italy or India. Japan's arable land now is estimated as 16 percent of the total area.

Practically that means that Japan faces the same difficulties which drove her to expansion, militarism, war and defeat, namely, that her lack of arable land makes a huge population dependent upon imports for food and raw materials. A country that has a population increase of more than a million a year, needs an enormous supply. That supply cannot be found in Japan. Prior to World War II, Japan found her supply of food on the continent of Asia, soybeans from Manchuria, rice from Siam, etc. The raw cotton for her textile industry came principally from the United States. Iron ore came from Manchuria and China. She sold silk, camphor, textiles, tea, rubber goods, electrical equipment, newsprint, and other commodities principally to China and the United States, but it is to be noted that Japanese trade spread far. For instance, they developed a large tea market in North Africa.

Without this trade, Japan cannot exist. In fact, without an import of food and therefore a balancing export of manufactured goods, the Japanese would starve. There can be no doubt whatsoever that when the United States Navy cut Japan off from her food supply, World War II, in the Pacific had reached its realistic terminus.

The Japanese would like to restore their trade with China, but China is held by the Communists, who are at war with the United States. The Japanese Peace Treaty, with its adjunctive security treaties, binds Japan to the United States but does not preclude trade with continental China. Thus far, the Japanese have shown no indication of betraying the United States, but then our country is sustaining the Japanese economy. What will happen when we cease to support the Japanese?

There is no evidence in the past upon which to base an assumption that the Japanese will emigrate in large numbers. When all the world was open to them, Japanese trickled into other countries, but the total emigration amounted to very little. The Japanese are not happy outside of their own country.

When it is realized as the "Population Bulletin" points out, that Japan's 83,000,000 people, comparable to the 154,000,000 Americans, are crowded into an area no larger than Montana, it is surprising that they will not emigrate. Yet they have an attachment to their soil which knows no bounds. They accept a low standard of living, earthquakes, tidal waves and other unfavorable factors with Oriental patience. Besides, Japan is a country of rare beauty which, once visited, is not readily forgotten. At any rate, the Japanese like their country.

Surely, Japan could, out of this huge population, produce an army to fight against her traditional enemy, Soviet Russia. The enmity between those nations goes back to the 1880's. Japanese troops could be used in Malaya, Burma, French Indo-China and anywhere else.

Actually, the Russians realize the value of Japanese troops and have retained Japanese prisoners of war, indoctrinated them against their own country and against the United States. On the other hand, the United States, faced by a continuation of World War II in the Pacific, has taken no steps to use Japanese even in Korea, which since 1910 had been part of the Japanese Empire.

Japan has protected herself from starvation by two methods: prior to the Meiji Revolution (1868) by complete isolation; after that period, by political and economic imperialism and war. A new way is open now—partnership with the United States.

Try And Stop Me

—by Bennet Cerf

During the Nazi occupation of Paris a burly, mean-looking storm trooper strode into a subway car and tripped headlong over the umbrella of a meek little old lady who sat near the door. He picked himself up, bruised and bemused, and launched a tirade of abuse against the terrified old lady. Then, suddenly conscious of the hostile glares of the other occupants of the car, he lurched out at the next station.

The passengers waited until he was gone, then burst into spontaneous applause for the little woman with the umbrella. She hung her head modestly and said, "I know it isn't much—but he's the fifth one I bagged today."

Hollywood

—by Gene Handsaker

Hollywood — "It must've cost the studio thousands to teach this hunk to act." That's Will Rogers Jr., referring to himself.

The 40-year-old ex-soldier and ex-Congressman is playing his father, the late, beloved cowboy philosopher, in "The Story of Will Rogers." The resemblance is remarkable—square jaws, pinched features, and amused, blue-eyed twinkle.

"I never acted before and" — Will gazed confidentially—"I'm not acting now. Be an actor? Naw. If I hadn't grown up in the theater, I might want to." Will saw plenty of backstage life when his father was in vaudeville, the Ziegfeld Follies, and the movies. "After the picture's over I'll go back to the paper." He edits and publishes the Beverly Hills Citizen; circulation 3,100.

A lot of actors were considered for the Rogers role—Chill Wills, Gary Cooper, Joel McCrea, Stu Erwin among them. Even Bing Crosby made a screen test before Warner Brothers, which has had the story simmering for 11 years, made the obvious choice.

Jane Wyman, who plays Mrs. Will Rogers, spent several days rehearsing the script with Will, Jr. He appeared in several supporting players' screen tests to get used to the camera. "They're proppin' me up from all angles," Will, Jr. said, referring to all this help.

"I've had a lot of speeches at benefits and banquets, but that's different. You're delivering your own lines, not 'Come in, Mr. Kennicott; open the door.'"

After the funeral service I saw Jim Farley, staunch Democrat, in cordia conversation with Governor John Lodge of Connecticut, who had just recently made a speech endorsing Eisenhower.

They might have been talking about man's nearness to God.

The Once Over

—by H. I. Phillips

Emergency
Emil On Truce
Neutrals
Dear Babe:
Well, I guess you read all about the refusal of our side at P a n u n j o m, the City of Dreadful Runarounds, to accept Soviet Russia as a neutral observer in case of a truce. Some of the boys over here would accept her because everything here is so cockeyed that we might as well make it unanimous, they say. I am inclined to go along with this except that it would be only a step from that to accepting Joe Stalin as strictly neutral and then letting him sit as chairman of all congressional boards looking for Red spies and also giving him a place on the bench in all American trials of Commies. Then we could have Malik referee arguments between Congress and the Politburo, and let Vishinsky be a neutral umpire and decide who is right, McCarthy or Acheson.

Molotov could then be accepted as a judge in the Alger Hiss appeal and act as a typewriter expert, as he is feeling especially neutral, not having jumped on anybody with his old-time vigor in some time. I understand the editors of Pravda would be willing to serve on all committees deciding what American newspapers should print about the Soviet Union, and that Iavesta has a neutral writer who is willing to referee all debates between Foster Dulles and Gromyko.

Our side accepted Poland and Czechoslovakia as neutrals and I have been trying to figure this out but can't determine whether the decision was due to a fog and low visibility or to the fact that the helicopter carrying our delegates to the big tent flew in upside down. Why Joe Stalin would want to be on the committee of observers if he has Poland and Czechoslovakia on it can only be explained by the conclusion he does not even trust his best friends as far as he can throw a

There are two Maliks in U.N. . . . But don't scream! . . . The other one, Sardan Malik, is from India and a gentleman of great charm and courtesy . . . On a U.N. television program the other night he made quite a hit . . . Bewhiskered and in a turban, he seemed forbidding at first but turned out to have a heartwarming smile, a most gracious manner and a flawless command of English . . . He is a graduate of Oxford and an amusing moment came when, after a discussion of many major global issues, the Associated Press man said, "Mr. Malik, you were captain of your golf team at Oxford. What do you think of the abolition of the stymie?" (Talk about a change in pace!) . . . The Indian joined in the laughter and said, "I always considered the stymie an interesting feature of golf. It involved bad luck or good luck, but isn't that true of everything? I was sorry to see it go." . . . It made us feel a little more hopeful about U.N.

What goes on, boys, in that tent where so many years seem spent? Is there any way of knowing When you're coming; when you're going? How the conversations run? Are the meetings all in fun? Is the motto which you smother "In one end and out the other?"

Tent so widely advertised, Have you ever been advised What they put you up there for In the fading days of yore? Tell me, little tent, please do, What's the big idea with you? (Are you genuine or phony? Is it Panmunjom or Coney?) Yours deep in the snow but with lots of love, EMIL.

Milford Scene Of Wedding Of Viola Kern, R. C. Canouse

Milford—Miss Viola Kern, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis F. Kern, of Moon Valley Ranch, Milford, became the bride of Richard C. Canouse, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Canouse, of 307 East Harford St., Milford, at 1:30 p. m. Saturday in the First Presbyterian church there.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Clarence B. Scoville. The wedding march and other selections were played by John Weber Jr. The church was decorated with bouquets of mixed flowers and bows of white ribbon on the reserved pews.

The bride, given in marriage and escorted to the altar by her father, wore a white ball-length gown of accordion-pleated nylon tulle over taffeta-stuffed lace bodice and apron-cut skirt. The gown had a low-cut neckline and drop shoulders with tiny pointed sleeves. Her head-dress was a half-bonnet of lace-covered satin with a fingertip veil caught to the bonnet with orange blossoms. The bride carried an old-fashioned bouquet of white sweetpeas, carnations and daisies.

Miss Ruth Mary Hoover, of Minotola, N. J., aunt of the bride, was maid-of-honor. She wore a lavender ballerina-length dress with a bouffant skirt of nylon net and a purple velvet bodice with headpiece and mitts to match. She carried a small old-fashioned bouquet of lavender sweetpeas, yellow and white daisies and snapdragons.

Randolph Gregory, of Milford and Fort Dix, acted as best man. The ushers were Robert J. Smith and Keith Canouse, younger brother of the bridegroom, both of Milford.

The bride's dress was a black crepe dress trimmed with grey and tangerine with accessories of grey while the bridegroom's mother chose navy changeable taffeta with navy accessories. Both wore corsages of talisman roses.

Open house was held at the home of the bride's parents, Moon Valley Ranch, immediately following the ceremony. A wedding bell wedding cake was cut by the newlyweds.

The bride is a graduate of Milford High school, class of '50 and attended Kutztown State Teachers College. Mr. Canouse is a graduate of Milford High school, class of '49 and is employed by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The bride's going-away attire was a gold and tan check suit with gold accessories and a corsage of white roses. The bride couple left for a honeymoon trip to the New York City.

The out-of-town guests were from Philadelphia, Berwick, Slatington, Harrisburg, Kutztown and Stroudsburg, Pennsylvania, and Minotola, Vineland, Teaneck and Plainfield, N. J., and Middletown, N. Y.

A combined pre-nuptial and birthday party for the bride was held on Friday night at Moon Valley Ranch, at which time the bride and bridegroom presented presents to their attendants.

Scenes From Album Mark VFW Auxiliary

Old-fashioned Valentines came to life at the Valentine social which followed the meeting of the Veterans of Foreign Wars auxiliary on Monday night, when they entertained the men of the post with a series of living pictures, and a narrative from "The Evelyn Album."

Faithfully served as narrator with Helen Shiffer as the child at her side looking through an old-fashioned album, a Stella Metzgar who also provided the incidental music as the pictures in the album were shown life-size in a big frame. The script was written by Mrs. Georgie Alberson.

The pictures opened with a wedding scene featuring Evelyn Tweedie, Elizabeth Staples and Frank Weller, contrasted with a modern wedding with Brenda Metzgar as the flower girl. Gay Nineties costumes, fishermen, negligees and night caps, tourists costumes and old fashioned bathing suits, old time school-narths, geisha girls and other scenes from the past were climaxed with a picture of Betsy Ross, played by Clara Catlin, and the American flag.

Others taking part were Carolyn Gehr, Peg Goldy, Marie Cracelice, Hazel Ellenberger, Helen Fisher, Bessie Cook, Elsie Van Why, Dorothy Albertson, Mabel Hippler, Lucille Anuskevich, Ethel Luckison, Lucille Christensen, Lucille Coyne, Lucille Morris and Ed Wagner. Many of the costumes were more than 100 years old.

The entertainment followed a well-attended meeting with Mrs. Evelyn Tweedie presiding. Three new members, Mrs. B. Joy Koppenhaver, Mrs. Jane Franz and Mrs. Louise Sheeley, were initiated.

The auxiliary donated $10 to the Red Cross, and $5 to the department president's project, equal to one pane of glass in the hot houses which the department is sponsoring for rehabilitation work in the Veterans hospital.

Home Nursing Courses One Of Local Red Cross Services

The home nursing department of the Monroe county chapter of the American Red Cross has maintained its activity at a high level throughout the peace-time years as well as during war-time, although the present situation has stimulated adult classes which are being urged by Civil defense authorities.

In all Red Cross Home Nursing classes in Monroe county, the Civil defense supplement, dealing with injuries and illnesses frequently encountered in emergency situations has been added as a part of the course. Mrs. Eugene H. Martin, county chairman, announced.

All senior High schools in the county offer a course of Red Cross Home Nursing as part of their curricula. In East Stroudsburg High school it is offered as a unit in the hygiene classes for senior girls of which Mrs. Robert Harvey is the supervisor.

In the other senior High schools of the county, it is taught every other year to the junior and senior girls in the home economics departments of which Miss Miriam Lark is the county supervisor. There have also been several classes of home nursing for girls at the East Stroudsburg State Teachers College.

Adult community classes which have recently completed the course include the Shawnee class sponsored by the fire company auxiliary; and the Barrett township class sponsored by the Barrett PTA, both taught by Mrs. Thomas Shoemith.

At present three courses of instruction are being given: One at the Salvation Army headquarters in East Stroudsburg; the one in the E. S. High school, and one at the Mount Pocono Fire company hall. Mrs. David Kohn is teaching the Mount Pocono class.

Miss Unruh, national Red Cross supervisor of home nursing, visited the East Stroudsburg High school classes last week when she was enthusiastic about Mrs. Shoemith's teaching and the group's response.

The classes of 28 and 24 girls were among the best school classes she has ever visited, she said. Mrs. Roman Batory, R. N., was the first instructor of home nursing in the county schools. In more recent years, Mrs. Thomas Shoemith, R. N., has been in charge of all instruction. Authorized Monroe county instructors in home nursing include: Mrs. Shoemith, Mrs. Jacob Kintz, R. N., and Mrs. David Kohn, R. N. Mrs. Shoemith has completed additional training in Red Cross home nursing and is qualified to teach classes for instructors. An instructor's class is now being planned for April.

The home nursing committee is organized on the basis of work division, which at the present time includes the following personnel: Recruitment of classes: Mrs. Samuel Wells, chairman; Dr. Nina Mae Price, Mrs. Sidney Cohen, Mrs. Elmer Shaffer and Miss Miriam Lark.

Equipment: Mrs. John Stamford in charge with Mrs. Otto Heins and Mrs. Henry Slaboski. Instruction: Miss Charlotte Shupp in charge with Mrs. Roman Batory, Mrs. Jacob Kintz, Mrs. David Kohn and Mrs. Thomas Shoemith.

Also assisting in the school classes are community sponsors which last year included Mrs. Ethan Gregory for Polk township; High: Mrs. Harry Weiss, Chestnut Hill township; High: Mrs. Calvin Keiper for Monroe township; High: Miss Mary Shupp, Coolbaugh High; Mrs. John Stamford, Stroudsburg High and Mrs. Eugene Martin for East Stroudsburg High and East Stroudsburg State Teachers College.

Yesterday Helen's life was a bit more complicated than usual when Ann Williams of the Tea Room called her and asked, "What time is this breakfast going to be today?"

"Today?" Helen gasped. "Why, the breakfast is Friday around 9:15."

"Oh," Ann murmured. "Well, there's a lady here now all ready for the party... she even brought a hat." Later Ann told me the hat was a money if ever she saw one, and we are all looking forward to seeing it play a return engagement Friday.

PTA Party Benefits Hot Lunches

Swiftwater—Success marked every phase of the card and game party at the Paradise school here Friday night. The auditorium room was filled with card players, whereas other adult games were conducted downstairs; another class room was utilized for the main children's games. Those children too young to compete with the others were in the first grade room, where they were entertained with storytelling and non-competitive games, with apples for all.

Door prizes were awarded as follows: adult prize of a Singer sewing machine prize to David Lindstedt; and the live rabbit, offered for the child's prize went to Bobby Wescott. Nancy DePue received the electric corn popper, which was an award for the school children's special contest; the chenille bedspread was awarded to David (Diner) Be-secker. A guess cake went to L. R. Baker. Winners in the games were too numerous to mention individually.

Refreshments of sandwiches, pickles, coffee, tea and cocoa were served at the tables upstairs, and to the children in the cafeteria.

A very substantial sum was realized from the party, since all prizes were donated; and the proceeds will be applied to the hot lunch project, where it is greatly needed.

The committees wish to extend their thanks to all those who made contributions, both materials and of their time and effort.

Ventilation Eliminates Condensation

So many of the newer homes are having trouble with condensation that a brief and non-technical explanation of the trouble and the causes as well as the simple method used to clear up the difficulty is in order. Condensation is the change that takes place when the water vapor held in suspension in the air turns into great drops of water just the same as you have so often observed in the sweating of a very cold glass of water on a hot day.

All air contains moisture. The warmer the air the more moisture it contains, and when a cold surface like the plaster on an outside wall or the cold window glass comes in contact with the very moist air, then you will have condensation on that surface.

With the houses of today which are built so well and so tight with weatherstrips and storm sash, with positive insulation there is not enough movement of free air or ventilation that is not so heavily laden with moisture. Also the modern heating plants have humidifiers built into them which introduces into the heating unit additional moisture and all of these things tend to increase the moisture of the air within a house.

To control or reduce the amount of free moisture in the air which may turn into condensation, the humidifier at the furnace or heater should be regulated to decrease the moisture, or a humidistat may be installed on a kitchen ventilator so that humid or over-loaded moist air will be exhausted periodically and automatically from the room.

Usually more moisture originates in the kitchen or laundry than in any other place in the home because here there is a great amount of moisture released by cooking as well as in the laundry from the washing of clothes.

Plan For Expansion Of House

Don't compromise too much now on the things you want, building experts advise. Plan for them, then do them later. Or do with less house today and get good things in it, add more house later.

For example, you want an outdoor living room, plan your garage and house in such a way that you can add a breezeway porch between later.

Make your house plan expandable. If one bedroom is enough now, it's better to put off building the second or third than to save money on such important things as the heating unit, wall insulation, cabinets, sanitary ware, kitchen equipment, etc. Once these things are in they are very costly to replace.

Some people even go so far as to make the living room double for a bedroom with a studio couch, or with folding doors various sections of any large room can be closed off to serve the purpose of two or even three rooms, etc., temporarily.

Remember additions can be financed over periods from 18 months to 5 years depending upon the size of the loan. When your income goes up you can afford the extra monthly payments. But what you build, build well even if it is only three or four rooms, and be sure that your basic plan is one that can be expanded without disturbing the original house.

The Carol is an attractive little house. Two of its most appealing features are a picture window and the wide eave overhang. Though small in area, The Carol has three bedrooms, a comfortable living room and a combination kitchen-dinette. There is a full basement, as well as additional attic storage space.

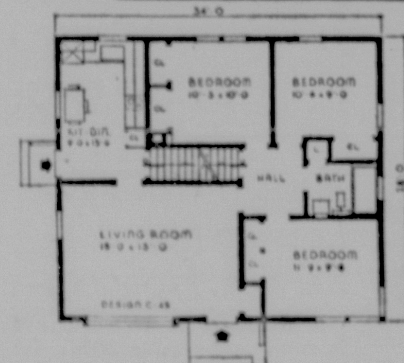

There are a generous number of closets in The Carol, a total of eight in all. Two of the bedrooms have twin closets. There is a convenient closet in the living room and another in the kitchen. The linen closet opens into the bathroom.

The Carol's floor plan is rectangular in shape. It is 34 feet by 28 feet with no expensive projections. The low roof lines and simple framing also reduce the cost of construction.

The exterior walls of The Carol are frame and finished with wide siding. The roof is covered with asphalt shingles.

The Carol's floor area is only 952 square feet. The house's volume is 18,564 cubic feet.

Visualize Completed Room When Picking Wall Finish

The finishing of the interior walls of the house more or less sets the decorative scheme for each room. Three elements should be considered in the planning of these finishes—texture, color, and tone.

All have a direct bearing on the effect desired—whether it is to be formal or informal, light or dark, simple or pretentious. Therefore, in choosing a wall finish, one should try to visualize the completed room.

Wood paneling is usually associated with stately, dignified rooms. The type of paneling which gave so much charm to Tudor houses is expensive and requires the work of an expert cabinet maker. However, other types of wood paneling are more adaptable and offer interesting wall-finish possibilities in various types of houses. Plywood is one of the woods that may be used in this way. They are usually rubbed down with wax, the natural grain being sufficient for decorative effect.

At the other extreme from Tudor paneling are the wide boards which were used to a great extent in Colonial homes. These are sometimes used in Cape Cod cottages and set a keynote in quaintness for any room in which they form a background. They, too, are usually waxed, retaining the color and pattern of the wood itself.

Roomy Work Closet Eases Task Of Busy Housewife

Most broom closets are too small to hold even the most frequently used cleaning equipment. Plan your work life around a big, well-planned work closet and you'll lead a charmed life.

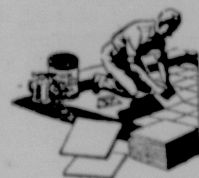

The time to get the work closet of your dreams is when you're building or remodeling. Plan for a work closet. Too many broom closets are just built around any tucked-away corner. The result is that you fight your way into them and out of them the rest of your days.

A generous-sized broom closet prolongs the life of brooms and mops, for they can be stood on end. This lessens wear and tear. Everything—broom, mops, vacuum cleaner, carpet sweepers, the special little brooms—can be assembled in one spot. They are easy to get at and can be selected quickly for the chores to be done.

The generous-sized work closet has space for cleaning materials—dust cloths, soaps, cleaning fluids. A good light does away with feeling for things in dark corners and saves your time and disposition.

Brace bars on shelves are worth the extra cost. They prevent bottles from being brushed off. They make the shelf on the inside of the door a real space-saver.

A generous work closet offers other advantages. It is storage space for a lot of tools that you can't live without and never can find a place for. Take the step

Assessments Not Patterned After Realty Sale Prices

(This is the second in a series of articles based on actual real estate sales in townships and boroughs and the amounts at which those properties were assessed. Figures were taken from official county records.)

By Leonard Randolph
In 1950, according to State Tax Equalization board figures, Jackson township had a market value of $1,144,562. It was assessed at $191,850. This was 16.76 per cent of the true value.

On the basis of reported assessments on 1951 real estate sales in Jackson township, that percentage dropped to 8.5 per cent.

Individually the properties were assessed at from 3 to 50 per cent of the sale price.

In January 1951, a 25-acre farm in Reoders was sold for $1500. The local assessor placed its assessed valuation at $75 or 5 per cent of the sale price. A month later another tract of land was sold for $500 in the same area. The assessed valuation was $200—40 per cent of the market value.

In this case once one of the often-repeated transactions between family groups. Since the purchase was made from an estate, it is entirely possible that the value of the land may have been far more than the $500 fee paid. For this reason, the assessment percentage, if based upon the true value of the land as reflected in previous sale prices might be considerably lower.

In April a house in Jackson township was sold for $4000. The assessed value of the building was set at $625—15 per cent of the market price.

Real estate sales in the township were apparently slow during the remainder of the year. Not until August and September were sales again recorded in substantial amounts.

At that time a 19-acre tract of land was sold for $7500 with an assessed valuation of $400—5 per cent of the true value. At almost the same time a plot of land measuring 16/100 acres was sold for $3500. The latter plot was assessed at the same percentage — 5 per cent — with a valuation of $175.

In October the inequity of assessed valuations becomes more apparent.

Two pieces of land (one of 1.1 acres, another for an unspecified amount) each sold for $500. The first plot of land was assessed at 10 per cent of its market value ($50); the second was assessed at 50 per cent ($250).

Jackson township's lowest assessment percentage for the 1951 sale period was set up in the month of November when a $7500 house at Appenzell was assessed at $250—three per cent of the sale price.

A tract of land at Reoders, which sold for $1000, was assessed at $150—15 per cent of the true value—in the same month.

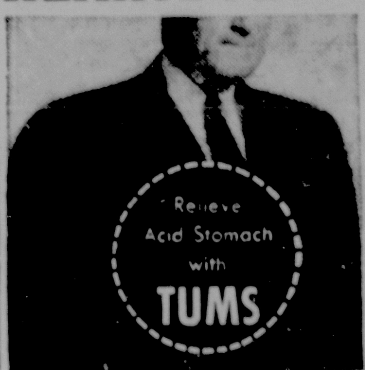

Of the three remaining sales for which assessments have been recorded in Jackson, two were assessed at 20 per cent of the sale price. These two properties (both lots) were sold at $500 and assessed at $100 each. Both were located in or near Reoders.

A piece of land, also in Reoders, sold for $1000 in the same month. It was assessed at $50—5 per cent of the sale price.

Here we have the enigma of a property which sold for twice as much as two others within the township, during the same time period, being assessed at only one-half the assessed value of the other two pieces of land. On a percentage basis it was as-essed at three-fourths less (20 per cent for the first two; 5 per cent for the latter sale).

The 12 sales covered by this article amounted to $28,500. The assessed valuation of the 12 properties was $2,425 — 8.5 per cent of the market value.

Assessment percentages ranged from the minimum 3 per cent to a maximum of 50. The properties were divided into these percentage brackets: one at 3 per cent; four at 5; one at 10; one at 11; one at 15; two at 20; one at 40 and one at 50.

Tomorrow: Chestnuthill Township.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Ray Steele, one of the top basketball performers in the Lehigh-Northampton League this season, is currently averaging 19.9 points per ball game, having scored 318 markers in 16 trips to the hardwood, with two outings still to take place. A good showing in both games could put the major league bound youngsters in the select group of basketball artists who are capable of averaging 20 counters a ball game over the span of a season.

Tonight is the date set for the outstanding production of "Past Times," a concert to be held at Stroudsburg High, with all proceeds going to the Varsity "S" club, in order that the organization may hold a spring banquet. Some of Stroudsburg High's outstanding graduates and teachers will be in the cast. Chet Gross, Cliff Farnese, Tony Gilpin and George Savidge are four stars in the production who haven't been named in this column to date. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. I'm told everyone will have a "whittling" good time.

The East Stroudsburg State Teachers College gym team will present an afternoon and night performance at Catasauqua High tomorrow. The showings are at 2:30 and 8 p.m. Dennis Roth, Lehigh-Northampton High's outstanding center, is also a bowler of note, so this column has been informed. Roth is currently averaging 23.9 points per game on the basketball court, while teammate Samuelson has an average of 18.5 per contest. Frank Oravec and Harry Mihalik, both of Palmerton, are averaging 18.4 and 16.7 tallies respectively a game.

Jim Passaro, ESSTC student, will be on the Allentown Alumni cage machine that will clash with the Catasauqua High grads, on the latter's home court, on Friday, March 14. Elmer Learn, former outstanding basketball star with Tannersville, in the Pocono Mountains League, is home on furlough from the army at the present time. Bill Milvy, former Palmerton High cage ace, winds up his collegiate court career at Temple on Saturday, against St. Joseph's. Reports have it that Bill may turn pro next season.

Waymart High, the number one quintet in the Wayne County Conference for the past three years, gave a demonstration of its basketball power by defeating a good Felt Township club last Friday, 70-21. It apparently wasn't any mistake that Waymart walked off with the court laurels once again this season.

Reports coming out of the Newfoundland area indicate that Waymart, needing basketball help like a hole in the head, will receive a welcome addition to its cage ranks next season, when Wade Keen transfers from Greene-Dreher. Sterling to Waymart. Keen was the ace of the Greene-Dreher court aggregation during the past campaign.

Lou Baseline, former stock holder in the Stroudsburg Poconos and present owner of the Scranton entry in the class "A" Eastern League, is backing the Tarboro, N. C. entry in the class "D" Coastal Plain League in the coming campaign. Tarboro will serve as a farm for Scranton, a position Stroudsburg would have filled if the North Atlantic League had remained in operation.

East Stroudsburg Quintet Invades Pen Argyl Tonight

Cavaliers Out To Improve Season's Mark

East Stroudsburg High school brings down the curtain on its 1951-52 Lehigh-Northampton league basketball schedule today, when the charges of Coach Dick Foster tangle with Pen Argyl, on the latter's home court. It will be the second meeting of the two clubs this season, with the Cavaliers holding a 61-56 nod over the green and white clad club.

However, the first meeting of the two contingents was held on the N. Courtland St. hardwood and Pen Argyl will be thirsty for revenge when the rivals of long standing come to blows today.

The junior varsity tussle is listed for 6:45 p.m. and the main event at approximately 8:15.

East Stroudsburg opened the second-half of the regular season with a bang, winning two straight games over Nazareth and Bangor.

However, since that time the Cavaliers have found the going very tough, dropping five straight battles. The defeats were administered by Hellertown, Parkland, Wilkes-Barre, Coplay and Fountain Hill.

Same Boat
However, Pen Argyl has been finishing the going even tougher than the Cavaliers during the second half of the flag race, losing six of seven outings to date.

Foster's starting lineup, while not official, is expected to feature Jack Tredinnick and Joe Chase at the forward spots, while reliable Ray Steele operates at center and John "Juice" Arns and Paul "Candy" Miller take care of the guard position.

Tonight's game is the final contest for the Cavaliers before the second of two battles with Stroudsburg High this season. The arch rivals are scheduled to clash on the East Stroudsburg court Friday night, with the home team hopeful of avenging a 39-38 reversal at the hands of the Mountaineers earlier in the campaign.

Commercial 'B' Loop To Roll
Commercial "B" League keggers will roll at Harmon's Recreation today. Schedule follows:

Alleys three and four — Blue Note Inn vs Courtland Beverage.

SPEAKER'S TABLE—Those seated at the speaker's table at last night's Father and Son banquet, sponsored by the Barrett Lions Club, are shown above. ## Fountain Hill Downs Bangor, 88-67

Bangor—Bangor High closed out its 1951-1952 Lehigh-Northampton League basketball schedule last night by bowing to Fountain Hill, 88-67, on the losing contingent's home hardwood. Fountain Hill made a clean sweep of the basketball program by winning the junior varsity tussle, 46-39, over the Bangor yearlings.

The Slaters, playing without the services of several key performers, held a nine-point lead at the end of the first quarter, but were unable to match the well balanced Fountain Hill attack the remainder of the distance.

Point Production
However, high scoring honors for the game went to Joe Heard, who picked up 30 points on 13 goals from the floor and four from the foul line, while teammate Bob Egbert was next in line with 21 counters.

Bangor made only seven of 20 shots from the foul line, while Fountain Hill rang the bell from the same distance on ten of 17 occasions.

Fountain Hill led 41-34 at the halfway mark and continued the pace in the second half, holding a 24-20 edge in the third period and putting the outcome of the game on ice with a 23-13 advantage during the final round.

Kish Reviews Grid Sport At Annual Lions Club Banquet

Canadensis — Ben Kish, former University of Pittsburgh quarterback and a star back for the Philadelphia Eagles, a National League football power for eight years, reviewed college and professional football as the guest speaker at the annual Barrett Lions club Father and Son banquet here last night, at Bender's Village Inn.

Kish also was the target for a question and answer program, to the delight of the 72 people present.

Honored Guests
The Barrett High school basketball team was honored at the affair, as were Andrew W. Lewis and Ed Kriner, school principal and coach respectively. Both Lewis and Kriner addressed brief remarks to the group.

George Sopko served as toastmaster and introduced the guest speaker, while Harold Kreck, president of the Barrett Lions club, presided over the meeting.

A film concerning the famed Minneapolis Lakers was shown and Coach Kriner talked briefly on the movie.

Jim Comerford, former member of the Wilmington Clippers, when that team was in the American League, accompanied Kish to the banquet.

Fisher's Five Nips Sherman
Using the first and third periods as a base of operation last night, Fisher's cage machine took the measure of the Sherman Theater, 65-63, in a Senior Y league basketball game played on the Monroe County YMCA court. Sherman's contingent was forced to finish the game with only four players on the floor, due to the five-foul ruling.

Scoring
Fisher's cage machine held the upper hand at the end of the first period, 20-16, but Sherman's crew came back to knot the count at halftime, 33-33. Fisher's five used the third period to vault into a 53-51 edge going into the final round, during which both teams picked up 12 points and Fisher's squad left the floor victorious.

Ed Reese, Joel Hahn and Don Miller were the big guns in a losing cause, with 17, 17 and 16 markers respectively. However, high scoring honors for the game went to Charley Houck, Fisher's forward, who picked up 20 counters on nine field goals and two charity shots.

Waymart Takes Measure Of Greene-Dreher

Newfoundland—Waymart, champion of the Wayne County Conference for the third straight year, was laid pressed to win over a scrappy band of eagles from Greene-Dreher-Sterling last night, 50-42, on the losing contingent's home court. Waymart did the bulk of its damage in the first and final rounds.

However, Greene-Dreher's junior varsity gained a measure of revenge by winning over the Waymart yearlings in the preliminary tussle, 24-20.

Waymart held a six-point lead at the end of the first period, by virtue of a 16-10 edge in the scoring. The regular season title holder also went on to hold a 15-11 edge in the second stanza to lead at halftime, 31-21.

However, the Stags, under the guidance of Coach Henry "Hank" Arneberg, fought their way back into the game in the third round with a 14-9 bulge in the point production, and trailed by a 40-35 count going into the final round.

Waymart put the contest on ice during the final eight minutes, with a 10-7 edge in the scoring.

Greene-Dreher made 20 of 33 foul shots, while Waymart came through with 24 conversions in the same number of attempts.

ESSTC Host To Trenton In Effort To Land Fifth Victory

Trenton State Teachers College will be the party of the second part today, when East Stroudsburg State Teachers College returns to the cage wars in the Normal Hill gymnasium. The main event is scheduled to get under way at 8:15 p. m., while a preliminary tussle will be held starting at 7.

Warriorettes Tangle With Ursinus Today

East Stroudsburg State Teachers College will send its girls' basketball team in search of its third victory of the present campaign, when the Warriorettes tangle with Ursinus College today, on the latter's home court. The contest is scheduled to get underway at 4 p. m.

The charges of Coach Genevieve Zimbar will be out to avenge a 41-33 setback at the hands of Ursinus last season. ESSTC won over the same sextette two years ago, 31-22.

Coach Zimbar announced last night that there would be only one change in her starting lineup. Joan Givens will be out of the forward section with virus and will be replaced by Janet Dix. Jane Moffet and Carol Mosser will be the other forwards. Grace Ashberry, Joan Lythgoe and Janice Hudak will handle the guard chores.

ESSTC has won over Rider and Panzer colleges thus far this season and in turn suffered a setback at the hands of Hunter College.

Old King Cole had fiddlers three

Who filled his halls with jollity —

But still the monarch's face was long

And so the fiddlers sang this song:

"No lyrics can do justice to The royal flavor of this brew!"

"They mean It Tastes Better!"

Ballantine brews for flavor. For lightness, yes. For dryness, of course. But first, last and always—Ballantine brews for flavor!

Ask the man for BALLANTINE BEER — with that famous 3-Ring Flavor!

How to get what you want and need in a truck

"Dodge 'Job-Rated' Trucks are the best we've ever used!"
...says PAUL CRUCE, Cruce Butane Co., Tulsa, Okla.

"We do a lot of driving on narrow roads, in and out of driveways, in small yards and other tight spots. We need trucks that are real easy to handle, so we switched to Dodge. They'll turn on a dime!"

"We service oil wells, too, and that's the toughest off-the-road hauling there is. We need plenty of pulling power. For mud and heavy pulling, Dodge 'Job-Rated' trucks are dependable and economical to operate."

Suppose you need a 1½- or 2-ton truck. Naturally, you'll want one that costs less to run. You'll want one engineered to last for years and years. Above all, you'll want one that fits your job to a "T".

That calls for a truck in which every unit that moves the load is engineered to meet most severe conditions—and every unit that supports the load is engineered to provide the strength and capacity needed. What's more, load-moving and load-supporting units must be engineered to work together.

The way to get such a truck is to see us about a Dodge "Job-Rated" truck—one that's factory-engineered for your kind of work!

Yes... when it comes to your hauling job, you'll find everything you want and need in a Dodge "Job-Rated" truck. Come in today.

Power with economy. The big high-compression engine of a Dodge "Job-Rated" 1½- or 2-ton truck operates with outstanding economy. You get money-saving values like chrome-plated top piston rings, and exhaust valve seat inserts.

Time-saving performance. Low loading height on 1½- and 2-ton models and hinged center sections on stake bodies make loading and unloading easier. 5-speed transmission available on most models for more pulling power, better speeds.

Easy handling. Exceptional handling and steering ease is made possible by wide front tread and short wheelbase. Thanks to shorter turning diameters, you can turn sharper either right or left—back into tight places easier.

Smithfield Bows To Middle Smithfield

Middle Smithfield used a strong first and final period to take the measure of Smithfield yesterday, 30-19, on the Monroe County YMCA court. Smithfield held the upper hand in the second and third periods, but was never able to overcome the damage inflicted by Middle Smithfield in the other two rounds.

Coch Glenn Wallingford's Middle Smithfield charges ran wild during the opening round to pick up 14 points, while Smithfield was held to a pair of field goals. Smithfield held a 5-3 edge, in the second quarter, but the ultimate winner was on the front end of the score at half time.

Upper Hand
Smithfield again held the upper hand in the third stanza, 6-2, but Middle Smithfield entered the final round on the long end of a 19-15 count and then promptly put the game on ice with an 11-4 advantage in the home stretch.

Middle Smithfield made two of four shots from the foul line, while Smithfield came through with one of six tosses from the same distance.

Bob Ace brought down high scoring honors for Middle Smithfield, with 13 points, while Dan Marvin, with eight counters, was the big gun in a losing cause.

Kentucky Tops In National Court Poll

New York (AP)—The University of Kentucky, already champions of the Southeastern Conference, heads into tournament play Thursday and victory as expected would cement for Coach Adolph Rupp's club rating as the season's number one basketball team. For the fifth week in a row, Kentucky was ranked on top of the cage heap yesterday in the twelfth weekly nationwide poll of the Associated Press.

Final Poll

Next week's poll will be the final one of the season, and if Kentucky goes through the Southeastern Conference tournament all victorious, Rupp's mighty men undoubtedly will be rated number one again. This would make Kentucky the number one outfit for three of the four seasons that the AP poll of sports writers and sportscasters has been conducted.

Illinois, which has all but sewed up the Big Ten title, moved up to second place from fifth a week ago. Kansas State dropped from second to number three, and Duquesne skidded a notch to number four. Others in order are St. Louis, Washington, Iowa, Kansas, St. John's, and West Virginia.

The latter replaced St. Bonaventure in the top-ten, moving up from number 12.

Three Former Stars Plead Guilty To Point Shaving

New York (AP)—Three former University of Kentucky basketball stars, members of the great teams that won the National Collegiate A. A. championships in 1948 and 1949 and went on to win Olympic fame, yesterday pleaded guilty to a charge of conspiring with gamblers to shave points in a National Invitation Tournament game here in 1949.

Dale Barnstable, Ralph Beard and Alex Groza were permitted to plead to a conspiracy charge, a misdemeanor for which they may be sentenced to serve up to three years in the New York City penitentiary. A more serious charge of accepting a bribe was, in effect, dropped. Bribery, a felony, is punishable by a state prison term.

Parole

General Session Judge Saul S. Streit paroled them until March 28, when sentence will be pronounced.

The three pleaded guilty of conspiring to influence the result of the invitation tournament game with Loyola of Chicago in Madison Square Garden, March 14, 1949. Loyola won the game, 67 to 56. After that surprising "upset," Kentucky went on to win the NCAA championship, beating Villanova and Illinois in the Eastern Regional tournament and Oklahoma A. and M. in the east-west final.

Settlement Reached In Price Estate

Portland — Litigation over the $137,000 estate of the late Mary C. Price which involves an extensive tract of land near here, including an old stone farm house and land used as a private airport between here and Delaware, N.J., bridge, ended this week with approval by Judge William A. Frank of an agreement between litigants. Under the agreement covering the auction in Northampton County court, the executors of the 1941 will of the 70-year-old woman agree that John Harley Price, 34, is the surviving husband and thus entitled to one-half of the estate.

The executors, Cornelius Van Buren and William D. Tucker, of New York City, agreed to discontinue an equity action brought against Mr. Price last June asking the court to restrain him from interfering with their administration of the estate.

Mr. Price agrees to drop a contest of the 1941 will made before his marriage to the woman in 1946 at Aiken, S.C., and to discontinue his attempt to probate a purported will made by her in 1948 making him sole beneficiary.

When this is done, the court ruled, Mr. Price is to receive a deed to the dwelling located near Sandy Shores south of here, a bill of sale for personal property in the dwelling and $40,439.43. To be deducted from this is $13,674 for payment of inheritance taxes.

The estate is to receive $61,887.18 in cash, less $5,000 already distributed to Mr. Van Buren, a son by a former marriage and $7,500 for inheritance taxes.

The contest first came to public attention last Spring when Mr. Price barred the administrators from the home and forced them to call off an auction sale they had advertised.

Regional Lions Clubs To Stage Rally Here April 15

Stroudsburg Lions, at their regular dinner meeting in the Penn-Stroud ballroom last night, saw two motion pictures and made plans for holding a regional rally of 21 clubs here on April 15.

Deputy District Governor Sidney Effross sent word of the proposed district session at which 200 Lions are expected. Herman Bailey will be the speaker and Joseph O'Donnell the master of ceremonies.

Cy Katz reported on the coming club charter night, which will be held on Friday night, March 21. He said the entertainment and band have been selected.

Jacob Wachtman, new secretary of the Pocono Mountains County Chamber of Commerce, was introduced.

The first of the motion pictures, a patriotic number presented by "Freedom's Foundation" was through the courtesy of Jack Crandall manager of Pocono Manor. It was entitled "The Forge" and dealt with the rigors and trials of the patriots' army when wintering at Valley Forge.

The second movie dealt with "Incodel" and the proposed developments in the Delaware watershed. It was preceded by a brief address by Harvey R. Frantz, conservationist of Incodel. He told of the original proposition by New York state to divert a vast quantity of water from the headquarters of the Delaware and how the state was finally authorized to take 440,000,000 gallons a day. This caused the formation of the inter-state commission known as Incodel, which is a great inter-state water project. Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey and Delaware are concerned in it.

Incodel plans and promotes a final settlement and when this has been done and accepted by the states an authority will be created to carry out the suggestions.

Ben Coolbaugh operated the projecting machine for both pictures.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
